RENT LAMENT FROM 9 IN 10

Only a relatively few people who rent houses or flats in the western suburbs have no complaints about their accommodation.

Virtually nine out of 10 have grievances.

This is shown by a survey of tenants in the west by the Tenants' Union of Victoria.

The survey was completed last year and a summary has been issued, the findings are now with a sociology team and a full report on its implications will be issued later.

The summary gives percentage responses to the survey.

Highest among the grievances was poor conditions or poor state of repair, 42.8 per cent, followed by not suitable for children, 34.3, rent too high 26.7, too noisy 25.4 and too small, 18.3.

More than a quarter of those surveyed had dampness in rooms, and a slightly higher percentage had either no hot water, or problems with the hot-water system.

Three quarters of the tenants had found it necessary to ask for repairs since moving in, and nearly all of them claimed the repairs had either not been done, or not completed.

Nearly half the tenants had resorted to doing repairs themselves, and more than three quarters of these had never been paid for their work.

More than half the tenants had had rent increases in the last year, four fifths of them were given no reason for the rise, and a third of all the tenants considered the rises unfair.

Bonds were paid by 72 per cent of the tenants, and 75 per cent were against the bond system.

Finally 82.6 per cent of all the tenants would prefer to be buying a house or flat.

Meanwhile a community development officer to assist tenants in the west has been appointed by the Tenants Union of Victoria under a grant from the Western Regional Council for Social Development.

The officer is Mr. Mike Montgomery, who will be available at the Working Women's Centre, at 93 Cowper Street, Footscray, from 9 am to 11 am, Monday to Friday.

He can be phoned on 689 3273.

As well, a free legal service has been set up for those in need of advice and representation.

It will operate every Wednesday night from 5 pm to 8 pm at 78 Paisley Street, Footscray, next door to the trade-union clinic.

The Tenants' Union is setting up other contact points and advice centres in the west, and as it relies largely on volunteer labor, all interested people are asked to phone Mike Montgomery.

Pam: 'I tried too hard'

Pam Jowett didn't get a place in the Victorian javelin titles on Sunday, although she has been a consistent second all season.

Pam, 19, of Edward Avenue, Altona North, believes she was probably "trying too hard" to follow the advice of Olympic silver medallist Marion Becker.

Mrs. Becker, a member of a west German athletic contingent competing in the Melbourne Games earlier this month, gave three-hours of javelin coaching to about 30 girls on February 6.

Pam was one of the girls who paid close attention to the criticisms of her style, and in the days since, she has tried to correct the faults to better her best distance of 42.50.

However, in the titles at Olympic Park on Sunday, she could only manage a best of 35 metres.

"I just didn't seem to be able to 'hit it,'" she told The Star yesterday.

"I think I was trying too hard to do what she (Mrs. Becker) told us . . .

"I think it may take some time to adapt to the new technique.

"During winter I'll be getting right into it, I'll be working on it pretty hard," said Pam. She sounded determined . . .

Top US dancer coaches locals

Kathryn Lowe, American dancer and choreographer, who has played in films like Bye Bye Birdie, Trapeze and Hans Christian Andersen, is lending her talents to the Altona Drama Group.

She is helping the group to stage Guys and Dolls, which will run for three nights at the end of April, and another three at the start of May.

Kathryn, who is now living in Australia with her husband and daughter, agreed to train the Altona cast, because the director (Rex Callahan) is a very old friend.

"He asked me if I was interested . . . and I was," she said.

She is teaching cast members two evenings a week, and says that three minutes of dance on stage will take three hours of rehearsal a night.

"I guess by the time the show goes on, I'll have spent well over 100 hours on rehearsal," she said.

"I don't think any of the cast has had dance training, at least not to my knowledge. But they're all doing beautifully.

"A musical isn't easy on the principals, they all have to sing and dance as well as act — whether they like it or not . . . and not all like it."

Kathryn ran her own school, The Kathryn Lowe School of the Dance, in California, from 1968 to last year.

"That was because we had been called back to the States on an urgent family matter in '68. It was supposed to be for a year, but that stretched to eight years.

"We wanted to come back to Australia all that time, and we finally made it last year."

Students from her school are accepted by leading ballet companies in Germany, France, and Norway as well as America.

Kathryn herself trained under top dance exponents like Gene Kelly and mime Marcel Marceau.

And what does she think of the west?

"Well, I hadn't been out this way before, and I've found the people very, very friendly . . .

"If they asked me I'd love to come back to work here. Everyone is enthusiastic, and a lot of fun, and the standard of theatre work is very high."

Step nearer to alcohol, drug centre

An interim committee, elected at a public meeting last Wednesday, will seek money for a counselling, referral and detoxification service for alcohol and drug dependants in the western suburbs.

About 50 people attended the meeting in the Footscray Town Hall, called by the Western Region Working Group on Alcohol and Drug Dependence.

The 13 members of the working group, plus seven others, were elected to the interim committee which will seek registration with the Hospital's and Charities Commission before placing its submission before the appropriate State and Federal authorities.

Several speakers addressed the meeting including Dr. G. Joslin of the Western Region Community Health Centre; Jim, a sober member of Alcoholics Anonymous; Kevin Larkins, who runs the Geelong centre for Alcohol and Drug Dependence; and Geoff Swain, an organiser with the Waterside Workers' Federation.

Mr. Swain said that the Government received about $400 million a year in excise duty on alcohol and therefore has a responsibility to channel some of this money into educating the public on the uses of alcohol.

He suggested that those industries manufacturing alcohol be taxed to pay for the damage caused by their products.

Mr. Swain told the gathering that some distillers overseas were accepting the importance of advocating responsible drinking in their advertising. This should be done here.

Mr. Swain was critical of the medical profession. He said doctors had not come to terms with the disease of alcoholism and often failed to identify the alcohol factor in patients presenting for various injuries and illnesses.

Mr. Swain said the Western region had been particularly neglected in the provision of services for alcohol and drug dependent people and their families.

"The Western Region is the centre of Victoria's industry and only one workshop in the west has a programme for alcoholics," said Mr. Swain.

The meeting resolved: • That the interim committee make a submission for funding for the establishment of information and counselling referral services in the Western Region.

• That the interim committee make a submission for funding for the establishment of a non medical detoxification facility nearby and in co-operation with a public hospital.

• That the meeting call on the appropriate Federal and/or State body to allocate funds for the establishment of detoxification facilities on a 24 hour, in-patient basis, attached to the Western General Hospital.

• That the interim committee consult employer and trade union bodies to consider the provision of services for alcohol and drug dependent people in the work place.

• That the interim committee institute an active media campaign on its proposals.

Working group spokesperson Ms. Diana Sonenberg told The Star-Advertiser that the meeting suggested setting up a half-way house in the west for the homeless and those at risk to themselves and others because of their dependency on either drugs or alcohol.

"The half-way house would provide a chance for addicts to be rehabilitated or taught to live with their problems," said Ms. Sonenberg.

She said the interim committee's various submissions had to be in by the end of March.

Work on these had already begun with letters to the police and welfare agencies seeking information.

"We have also asked schools in St. Albans and Williamstown for information on family and student alcoholism," she said.

Footscray Council donated use of the town hall for the public meeting.

"The council has also expressed its support for our work," Ms. Sonenberg said.

454 Jobless

The number of people out of work and registered with the Altona branch of the Commonwealth Employment Service was 454 at the end of January.

The number of vacancies available through the CES is 20.

Most of those out of work are junior females — they number 137.

Men looking for work total 115, six fewer than the number of junior men registered with the service.

Eighty-one women are also looking for work.

Group grew because of Gwen's mum

When Gwen Poelwyk's mother was alive, Gwen used to despair sometimes over the lack of groups "Mum" could join to keep boredom at bay.

"We had to travel right across the city sometimes to find things of interest to her," Gwen said yesterday.

"Things like the elderly-citizens' club were out, because people like my mother prefer to be with people of all ages."

And it was through dealing with this problem a few years ago, that Gwen decided to begin the Altona Women's Group last year.

"It is the kind of thing Mum would have liked — a group where women of all ages can meet, discuss problems like loneliness, nerves or fears, and hear guest speakers from time to time," Gwen said.

"I began it as a Tuesday-morning group last year, but our numbers have grown so much that we may have to look for somewhere else to meet soon."

The group uses a room at The Homestead in Queen Street on Tuesdays.

Now an evening group has been formed.

"We held our first get-together last week, and we'll meet each Thursday in the Seves Street Methodist Hall at 8 pm," said Gwen.

"There aren't very many of us yet, but we hope the word will get around so our numbers will grow."

Tomorrow night the women will see film of Russia, and hear a talk from guest speaker, Miss E. Mead, who has just returned from an overseas trip.

Gwen says the Tuesday-morning group, as well as hearing talks, and discussing various subjects of general interest, see craft demonstrations and, each month, hires a bus for outings.

"This whole thing I have organised is non-profit making . . . members pay a little to cover the cost of hall rental and supper."

"Any money that's ever left over is put towards our Christmas party."

Gwen, who lives in Mount Street, Altona, has two sons at Secondary school, and another in the Navy.

"They don't take much looking after these days, and my husband doesn't mind me 'doing my own thing', so there we are," she said.

Members attending the groups come from Footscray, Williamstown and Werribee, as well as Altona.

CHURCH PLANS Worship by the sea

The annual beach service conducted by Williamstown and District Council of Churches will be held next Sunday.

The service will be off The Esplanade — near the Anglers Clubrooms, at 2.30 pm.

Preacher will be the Rev. Fr. Shorten, of St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church, Williamstown.

Mr. Arthur Haskell will lead a lively and well-balanced programme, with both district and outside artists.

Musical backing will be provided by Mr. Arthur Haskell and Neville Fields Jazz Group.

A feature will be numbers by the Westside Singers.

All Williamstown district churches are involved in organising the service and it is open to everyone. A spokesman suggested yesterday that people take folding chairs if possible.

Harvest day

Harvest Festival services will be celebrated next Sunday at two Williamstown district churches involved in the Uniting Church.

These are St. Johns, Williamstown, and Spotswood Methodist churches.

At St. John's Mr. Russell Hancey will preach at the 10 am service and the Rev. Laurance Slee at 7 pm.

Mr. Slee will preach at Spotswood at 10.45 am.

The service at St. Stephen's, Williamstown, at 9.30 am will be conducted by Mr. Slee.

The Rev. Chester Hodge, of St. Stephen's, will preach at Westgate Church, Newport, at 11 am.

The service at Williamstown Congregational Church at 11 am will be conducted by the Rev. H. M. Moorhouse.

The Rev. W. Barns will preach at Altona Presbyterian Church at 9.30 am.

Schoolboy fined $295

A 17-year-old schoolboy was ordered to pay fines totalling $295 in Williamstown Court on Thursday.

The boy, a student at Paisley High School, "has a great love of vehicles" the court was told. His appearance on Thursday arose because of it.

He pleaded not guilty to charges of unlicensed driving, fraudulent use of number plates, driving an unregistered vehicle, theft of number plates and driving without third-party insurance.

Senior Constable Carl Drought, of the Sunshine Crime SMS, told Mr. D. Scully, SM, he was on duty in Mason Street, Newport, at 6.45 pm on October 20 last year.

"At the lights at the Melbourne Road intersection I noticed a cream Austin sedan — it stalled several times at the crossing, and I intercepted it at Paine Street, Newport."

"The driver gave his name and address, and said he was born on 2/9/59 and was 18. I remarked that if the date was right, he would be 17."

"He admitted he had never held a licence to drive. I looked at the registration label on the car, and it didn't tally with the number on plates . . .

"The driver said he had taken the plates from another car in Altona North, near Blackshaws Road, six months previously."

"He said he and a friend bought the car to drive around 'the pad-dock', and when they saw a Volkswagen near a house they took the plates and put them on the Austin so they could drive the car the streets."

"The car was unregistered, and had no third-party insurance," Sen. Const. Drought said.

Mr. Tony Hannebery, for the schoolboy, said his client was a full-time student, and although he had passed fifth form last year, was repeating the year in a maths/science course.

"He wants to be a biologist," he told the court.

"This boy has a great love of vehicles, and his uncle sold him the Austin, which he then set about fixing up."

"As a matter of fact, on the day he was apprehended, he was taking the car from a garage where he had been working on it."

"He took the number plates from a car he noticed had been dumped, and he assumed that because the car had been dumped, so had the plates."

"He intended no malice by the act. He has no offences against his name, and his father, who was most upset by this trouble, took it out on the defendant."

"His father didn't come to court today, although his mother is here," Mr. Hannebery said.

Mr. Scully: "The fines . . . how is he going to pay the fines? I have determined I won't send him to jail."

Mr. Hannebery consulted his client. "Well, he worked over Christmas, your worship."

Mr. Scully ordered the boy to pay $150 for unlicensed driving, $70 for driving an unregistered vehicle, $50 for theft of number plates, and another $25 for the fraudulent use of the plates.

He gave him a 12-month bond on the charge of driving without insurance, and also disqualified him from obtaining a driver's licence for 12 months.

Mr. Scully allowed him two months to pay the

A record turnout of Sabre-class yachts on Port Phillip Bay will mark the 25th anniversary of Altona Yacht Club this year.

The club will host the Victorian Sabre championships over the Labor Day weekend next month.

So far a record 83 yachtsmen have entered. The actual anniversary of the club was celebrated by members on February 18.

More than 200 past and present members, and guests including Mr. Gordon Stirling, MLA, and the Mayor, Cr. Les Crofts, were present.

For many years, club members sailed from the beach near Altona pier, until club rooms were built on Cresser Reserve.

Since then, the club has been able to add several necessary features, including a judge and starter's box, a modern kitchen and lounge, and a storage area for up to 50 boats.

For further information on the club, contact Mr. Graeme Blunt after hours on 749 2821.

Problem flares at PRA

Recent legislation requiring lower lead content in petrol has left Petroleum Refineries (Australia) Pty. Ltd. with a problem — disposal of waste gases.

There is now so much waste that a good deal of it will have to be burned off in the refinery flare, so that the characteristic orange flame will be a feature of the Altona skyline for most of the hot weather.

The company is hastening to overcome this surplus-gas problem and a major project to cut our regular flare operation, is now on the drawing board.

A statement to the Star-Advertiser this week told of the predicament the lower-lead legislation has caused.

It explained that lead is added to petrol to boost its octane rating (improve its performance).

If the lead is reduced other action must be taken to ensure that the petrol still meets the requirements of modern cars.

"To compensate for the lead reduction, we have to run our plant harder," said the general manager, Mr. W. J. Sundermann.

"And the harder we run the plant, the more gas by-products we produce."

It is the disposal of these extra wastes that is the core of the problem.

In the past, PRA either sold the gas to nearby Altona Petrochemical Co. or used it to power refinery plant.

But neither plant has the capacity to cope with the extra gas now being generated.

The gas is not suitable for immediate public use without extensive treatment.

"The situation is aggravated by the summer weather because the heat accelerates the formation of gaseous material and increases the excess," said Mr. Sundermann.

The refinery has already tried to minimise the problem.

"We have regenerated — cleaned out — our plant so that it operates more efficiently," said Mr. Sundermann.

"And we also arranged for APC to modify its operations to make more gas."

The project that PRA has begun for eliminating regular flare operation is expected to cost more than $8 million.

"There will be little direct return to us in economic terms," said Mr. Sundermann.

"But we are very aware of our responsibility to the people of Altona and the environment in which they must live and work."

"We regret any inconvenience caused by the flaring and will continue to do our best to meet the requirements of both the Government and the local community."

Rock's in the hair

The latest craze among the young — punk rock — has reached the western suburbs. ... Now the kids can have their hair colored green, blue or bright red at the Natural Image Beauty Salon in Ferguson Street, Williamstown.

Says the salon owner Kristine Palmer: "It's what the young want, and I don't think there's anything like it for them out here."

Kristine says the inspiration to offer what she calls "the crazy colors", had nothing to do with Sydney television comedienne Jeanie Lewis. Jeannie has been startling Mike Walsh Show viewers with her hair colors for some time.

"No, it's the punk rock crowd," says Kristine. "We have to cater to the young, and it's the way fashions have gone."

Another McKellar bequest

The last $789 from the will of the late Hilda McKellar was handed over to Williamstown Hospital last week.

Miss McKellar, sister in charge at the Williamstown Health Centre, died eight years ago.

She left the hospital an initial $4573, and part proceeds from the sale of a block of land, completed recently.

The $789 is from the land sale. The original $4573 was used by the hospital to equip its intensive-care ward, named after Miss McKellar.

Williamstown Council, which built a new health centre shortly after her death, named the new building the Hilda McKellar Infant Welfare Centre.

Miss McKellar spent many years in Williamstown caring for mothers and new-born babies.

West's councils face crunch

Several western cities are facing "a real calamity" in their financial affairs next year according to one of their town clerks.

The clerk, who did not want to be named, said some cities were "indulging in bad business practices" by using Government grants for maintenance.

He said the calamity was deferred this year when the State Government decided that no municipality would be worse off than it was the previous year.

However, the criteria for next year were clear and would be loaded against "the older cities" in favor of rural municipalities.

The clerk said: "I can see a city like Footscray getting $200,000 less next year than it got this year."

"And this is money councillors seem reluctant to take from their ratepayers."

He added: "Alan Hunt (Minister for Local Government) is quite right when he says the tools are there for councils to use in management if they want to."

"However, we should have the right to differential rates, and rates should be a deduction from income tax payable, not from assets taxable income."

Meanwhile the west's four city councils have avoided to some extent dramatic falls in commercial rates alongside steep increases in house rates.

The four cities — Footscray, Sunshine, Williamstown and Altona — are all rated on the net annual value (NAV) principle.

The cities "over the river" which have been in the news recently have the unimproved capital value (UCV) principle.

Sunshine's Commissioner Alex Gillon said yesterday: "Every city has this problem of falling commercial value and rising dwelling value, but the cities with NAV have avoided the bigger problems of cities with UCV."

"We still have the problem but to a lesser extent."

Deputy Town Clerk Bruce Ede agreed that this was just about the situation in Footscray.

He added that an individual municipality could take individual action on a local basis to "get around" problems, but the effect of the valuation structure on MMBW rates was a concern.

In Williamstown, the situation is compounded by "trendiness" in parts of the city. However, Town Clerk-elect Trevor Sloan said the relationship of dwelling to commercial rates was about the same as in Footscray and Sunshine.

In his city, rising household valuations in some parts were causing concern.

Altona gets about half its revenue from industry, and is regarded as comparatively wealthy.

Figures released by Town Clerk Syd Fell show that this year the proportion of rates from industry is 49.65 per cent, compared with 52.72 per cent last year.

Household contributions are up to 47.13 per cent from 43.05.

Trouble brews in queues

It was a few days before Christmas, and about 60 people waited at the liquor store to be served.

One of them — we'll call him Luigi — got fed up, and walked off with a bottle of champagne and two other bottles of liquor.

He pleaded guilty in Williamstown Court last Tuesday to a theft charge.

Constable McDonald, of Altona, was in a queue, too. It was at Kinda's in Millers Road, Altona.

"I was there for about 10 minutes when I noticed a gentleman in white overalls holding three bottles in his hands," he told the court.

"He turned away from the counter, hesitated, and then turned back again. He did this again, and then turned once more and left the shop."

"He walked about 20 yards up the road before I caught him. I put a hand on his shoulder and said: 'Just a minute.' He then said to me: 'I will pay, I will pay.'"

"It appeared to me that he had intended paying for the wine, but left because he was sick of waiting," Const. McDonald said.

Mr. D. Robbie, defending, said Luigi came from an Italian family with a high sense of honor.

"His parents don't know of this trouble, and he hopes they never do know."

"He's aware that what he did was extraordinarily stupid, and he isn't likely to offend again."

Mr. D. Scully, SM, ended the agony.

"I believe there are mitigating circumstances," he said.

Extending Christmas good will, he placed Luigi on a 12-months' good-behavior bond of $50, and ordered him to pay $75 into the poor box.

Luigi paid immediately.

Polly is taking shape

Restoration of the three-masted iron barque, Polly Woodside (pictured), is going ahead steadily.

Latest progress is the delivery of timber from Canada to be shaped into the topmasts for the last remaining sailing ship in Australia.

The timber is admiralty standard, spar-grade, seasoned Douglas Fir.

Each of the two pieces is 42ft. long and 16in square.

The spars were shipped from Canada on the West Ocean. They were delivered the restoration site, No. 9 South Wharf, as a donation by TB Transport and JA-8 Express.

A spokesman for the National Trust, which is restoring the Polly Woodside, said the timber was supplied at "generous rates" by Seaboard and Weldwood, of Vancouver, with assistance from Trend Windows Ltd., of Sydney.

Money to buy the spars was raised by the Seamen's Union Topmasts Appeal, with donations from Williamstown and Westernport tug seamen.

Custom-clearance services were donated by Rodrigues and Hall.

Liaison for this assistance was handled by Mr. V. M. Darrock, of the Polly Woodside Volunteers Committee.

The spokesman said Mr. H. Lloyd had been appointed project manager for the restoration.

The Polly Woodside will become a museum barque and when restored will be moved to the site of the former Duke and Orr's dry dock.

The museum will contain many things given by the Shiplovers Society, shipping lines and many people connected with the maritime scene.

A collection of historic ships' bells has started for the museum and donations of these will be credited in the museum to the donors.

People wishing to assist in this should contact Mr. Lloyd, on 69 3833.

Xi Kappa back in action

Xi Kappa, the Altona chapter of Beta Sigma Phi, has begun its activities for the year after the Christmas break.

Last year the chapter raised money to support a child through the World Vision scheme, and also gave $71 to the Western Suburbs Spastic Relief Association for the group's building fund.

Mrs. Gwladys Winfield, a Xi Kappa member, has been elected president of the western Beta Sigma Phi chapters, and has already attended conventions throughout Australia and in London.

Officers of the Altona chapter this year are: President, Lia Gunn; vice-president, Gwen Graham; secretary, Margaret Davey; treasurer, Lorraine Battenay; corresponding secretary, Dorothy McCarthy.

The chapter will be well represented at Operation Recreation at Cherry Lake park, Altona, on Sunday March 20.

Guides to rescue

The Girl Guides Association will be making two more deliveries to the bushfire area in western Victoria.

West Metropolitan Region Commissioner Joan Nikoliev has appealed for donations of cakes and biscuits which should reach headquarters before midday on Monday, February 28, or Monday, March 7.

They can also be left at Mrs. Nikoliev's home, 44 Twyford Street, Williamstown, before 11 am on those days. Cash gifts are welcome at any time.

Radio for sea safety

The Altona Yacht Club has received a $1410 grant from the Ministries of Youth, Sport and Recreation and State Development for a very-high-frequency radio set.

Mr. Alex Knight, MLC, has had word of this from the Government, which is providing $50,000 a year towards the cost of boat safety.

Outreach teach starts again

"School" won't begin until March 7 for about 300 students who attend classes at North Williamstown Primary.

These will be the people taking advantage of Community Outreach activities to be run at the school throughout the year.

Outreach will again offer a wide range of educational and recreational classes for both children and adults at a minimum cost.

This term, new activities will include macrame, enamelling and sketching on Monday, Thursday and Tuesday evenings, respectively, starting at 7.30.

Fees are around $8 a term of eight lessons, with student and concession rates of $6.

A small charge is also made for materials.

Two writers' workshops are on the programme — an evening class for adults, and an after-school one for children. The fees are $6 and $2.

For those interested in the more physical activities, modern jazz ballet is available in the evenings ($7 and $4 a term), and yoga will be held on Thursday afternoons at $8 for the eight-week course.

Kidstown Club will again be held this year.

and will run every Monday and Thursday afternoon after school. It is available for youngsters between five and 12, at a fee of $2.50.

No charge is made for the English classes for migrants, available each Tuesday morning. Child-care facilities are provided at no cost.

Enrolment application forms are available at the Altona, Williamstown and Newport libraries, and at the North Williamstown Primary School.

For further information phone 391 2712, or call at the Outreach information centre, 3 Freyer Street, North Williamstown on Tuesdays between 10 am and 3 pm or Thursdays between 10 am and 2 pm.

Young wives can get together

Young mothers in the western suburbs who are interested in an afternoon away from their children have been invited to attend meetings of Altona-Newport Young Wives Club.

The club, which is affiliated with the YWCA,
meets every second Tuesday at the Salvation Army
Hall, Queen Street, Altona from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m.

Programmes include
guest speakers, demonstrations, luncheons, coffee and conversation.

Arrangements are made for children to be cared for and afternoon tea is supplied.

Aim of the group is to provide friendship and a break away from housework and the children for a short spell each fortnight.

Those interested can obtain details by calling 398 4072, or 398 2609, or by attending the next meeting.

Mystery pedestrian killed on highway

Altona police are mystified as to the identity of a man killed on the Princes
Highway early on Sunday Morning.

The accident happened at about 2.15 am on Sunday morning.

The man was struck near the 20 km post (opposite the Tarmac Hotel) on the Melbourne-Geelong side of the road.

He was 6'0" (185 cm)
with red hair, a long red beard and moustache,

green eyes, natural teeth,
a fair complexion, about 13 stone, between 20 and
25. He was wearing blue jeans, a blue and white checked shirt and bare feet. Anyone who thinks they know the identity of the deceased or saw the accident should contact the officer in charge, Altona police station.

Reward in window
smashing

A large display window at Frick's butcher's shop in Borrack Square, Altona North, has been smashed twice in six weeks.

Mrs. Melita Frick rang the Star-Advertiser after the second incident last Tuesday week and offered a reward of $250 to anyone who can provide the police with information leading to the conviction of the person or persons responsible.

"It is very upsetting," said Mrs. Frick. "And the police cannot do much without some information."

The shop windows are insured — "but someone has to pay for this senseless damage," said Mrs. Frick.

A watching service inspects the shop at night.

Yachting

The Altona Yacht Club celebrated its 25th anniversary last Friday, and will host the State sabre class championships next month.

The celebration was held in the Finnish Hall, Pier Street, last Friday.

The dinner was attended by the mayor, Cr. Crofts, and other councillors, as well as foundation members of the club.

Altona Yacht Club has about 150 members. It sails fleets of 125s, sabres, mosquito catamarans, mirror 10s and Hartley trailer sailer 16s off the beach at Altona. There is also a miscellaneous fleet.

More than 100 sabres are expected to start in the series of races for the State titles during the long weekend next month.

Anniversary

The Williamstown Little Athletic Centre is holding a dinner dance for past and present members to mark its 10th anniversary.

It will be at the St. Kilda Town Hall on April 15, and will be a BYO function with tickets at $8 a double.

Bookings can be arranged by ringing Jim Jamieson, 317 9634 or Bill Humphries 391 3048 before March 3.

ANA CRICKETERS HAVE DAY OUT

Newport ANA Cricket Club had its most successful day for the season on Saturday when all three teams put themselves in winning positions.

The firsts, on top of the ladder, clashed with Seddon, who hold fifth position.

ANA opened the batting and lost an early wicket, but moved steadily the 2/80 at tea.

After the break, the scoring rate was stepped up, with many quick singles, although wickets fell regularly in the bid for runs.

ANA had 9/193 in the book at stumps, despite a steady attack by Seddon and only six boundaries scored for the day.

Top scores came from 18-year-old opener Greg Knight, with 44, John Becroft, 47, Jeff Askew 25, Alan McDonald 20 and Gary Hughes 19 n.o.

The Seconds, also playing against Seddon, dismissed the opposition for 126.

Chief wicket-takers were Hargreaves and Davies, who felled three each.

ANA looked in a strong position at stumps, with 2/62 in hand. David McDonald knocked up 27 and is still batting. Graeme Askew scored 20. The juniors met Newport and finished the day with a cracking 1/191.

The ANA innings opened with a stand by Mike McDonald, 23 and 'Spish' Padojewski, who made the partnership's tally up to the half-century.

An unfinished century partnership came after it, highlighted by captain Dale Vines lashing the bowlers for 101 n.o.

Pennant

In pennant bowls on Saturday, Altona had two wins and two losses.

In the club championship, Noel Dixon beat Sid Carton 31-21.

Pennant details:

A1 Altona 97 d, Essendon 93. Best rink, S. Carton (S), T. Burke, L. Crofts, P. Whitmore, 31-16.

Reserve 2, Altona 86, lost to Rosamond 91. Best rink, L. Craig (S), L. Thornycroft, J. Stephens, L. Spackman 26-15.

B4, Altona 123 d, Moreland 67. Best rink, J. Carr (S), F. Vale, A. Stephenson, A. Webster 38-14.

C4, Altona 69, lost to Rosamond 79.

Wet pitch hastens disaster for Gulls

Taking the opportunity of sending Williamstown in to bat on a rain-affected pitch has given Yarraville the edge in their clash at the Williamstown Road Oval.

Williamstown couldn't handle the conditions and were all out for a meagre 93. In reply, Yarraville are 0/41.

Disaster came quickly for the Seagulls when Yarraville's promising left-arm opening bowler, Frank Hansby, got "Jesse" James for 0.

Then former Williamstown player, George Shaw, snapped up a catch from coach, Les Joslin and Williamstown were 2/3.

Steve Sandri saw an lbw appeal go against him with the score on 13, and with the score on 32 former Yarraville player, Les Meyers, was caught by Don Jamieson off Paul John.

It was a big moment for Yarraville fans, who believed that Meyers was Williamstown's ace batsman.

Plague hit the Seagulls when Phil McTaggart was caught, McCulloch off John and at tea they were 5/71.

After tea, Bill Fowler and Rob Dyson looked good for a while until Dyson was bowled by Hansby. Fowler fell victim to Hansby a couple of runs later through a catch to McCulloch.

When Hansby struck again to pick up Barry McConnell's wicket, the Gulls were a perilous 8/76.

Tom Ferris gave Paul John his third wicket then Hansby struck again, for his fifth, to get an lbw decision against Laurie Hewet, who was playing in place of Tony Cahill.

Yarraville openers Peter Jowett, 22 n.o., and Ian Donald, 18 n.o., tore the Williamstown attack apart.

SCORES

Williamstown: Phil McTaggart c McCulloch b John 11, John James b Hansby 0; Les Joslin c Shaw b Hayne 3; Steve Dandri, lbw Donald 13; Les Meyers c Jamieson b John 5; Robin Dyson b Hansby 24; Bill Fowler c McCulloch b Hansby 17; Barry McConnell b Hansby 3; Tom Ferris b John 4; Laurie Hewet lbw Hansby 1, Andy Gibson not out 11, sundries 1, Total 93.

Bowling: Hansby 5/21 off 25 overs, John 2/18, Haynes 1/8, J. Donald 18. Yarraville: Peter Jowett 22 n.o., Ian Donald 18 n.o., sundries 1, Total 0/41. Among the bowlers Gibson has conceded 22, Joslin 10, McConnell 4 and Hewet 7.

SECONDS

In the Seconds, Yarra-ville also won the toss and sent the Seagulls in to bat. In a total of 124, the main scorers were Barry Hewet 35, Peter Thatcher 30, and Kev Tweedly 12.

For Yarraville, Peter Young 5/44, and John Gilham 5/29 were the wicket-takers.

At stumps, Yarraville were 0/10 in reply.

Williamstown Thirds were beaten by a strong Coburg side in the final game of the season. They are not in the finals.

Skipper, Ted Horton, made a grand 41, Steve Taaffe 20 and Ken Parker 14.

KEEP YOUR HEAD STEADY

One of the most common sins in golfing is the tendency to sway the upper body during the swing. This lateral swaying must be avoided at all costs if you want to get straight, powerful shots. This is why so many golf experts will tell you to keep your head steady as you swing.

Don't overdo it. You don't want your body to be tense. Naturally, there will be some slight movement of the head, even when you keep your eyes steadily on the ball. One little trick that I have recommended is to point your nose at the ball. This sounds a bit strange, but it helps you remember to keep the head steady and your eyes on the ball. Better shots will result.

Tennis is booming in Williamstown

Membership of the Williamstown Tennis Club has more than doubled in the past two years.

There are now 120 members, compared with 54 in 1974/75.

President, Mr. Norm Bernard, said the biggest increase had been in the juniors whose numbers had risen from seven in 1974/75 to 35.

The club has appointed Mrs. P. Hill to coach the youngsters.

Aths. clinic at Altona

Ron Carlton, international athlete, will lead a coaching clinic in high jumping at Grant Reserve, Civic Parade, Altona, from 3 p.m. on Sunday, (February 27). Ron, Victorian Little Aths. executive, is to lecture and coach all over Victoria in the next six months.

A working bee to repair the pavilion, will be held the courts and paint inside on Sunday at 9.30 a.m.

Footy training in full swing

Williamstown footballers put in another solid training run on Saturday.

Spectators were surprised to see Dandenong player, Bill Thompson, a former Seagull.

However it did not signify a return to the fold, he had stayed at John Fanning's house overnight, and had simply turned out for a gallop.

Garry Simpson has sore ankles and missed his first training. Jeff Scott's leg on the mend, and he expects to play this season. Ray Powley and Peter Kerr continue to train in good style.

Trainer, Kel Brent has arranged a practice game against Sunshine in March.

The Williamstown Junior Football Club will hold its annual meeting at the Holy Trinity Church Hall on Monday, February 28.
